Description

The Reality of Coastal Living

It's 8 PM on a warm Tuesday. You've just stepped out of the private elevator onto your rooftop terrace, sliding into the bubbling Jacuzzi with a glass of crisp local Arinto. The Atlantic Ocean stretches out unobstructed before you, painted in the deep oranges and purples of the fading Algarve sun. This isn't a holiday; it's your everyday life. Situated in a protected, low-traffic coastal enclave, this 300-square-meter new build sea view villa near Ponta da Piedade bridges the gap between raw natural beauty and high-tech, modern living.

Seamless Indoor-Outdoor Flow

Downstairs, the barrier between indoors and outdoors simply vanishes. Wall-to-wall, double-glazed sliding doors pull the salty ocean breeze right through the open-plan living space. The afternoon light bounces off the wide-plank flooring and sleek Silestone kitchen countertops, leading your eye straight out to the private swimming pool. It's a space built for barefoot mornings and easy entertaining, crafted by one of the Algarve's most reputable builders to ensure every acoustic and thermal detail is perfectly calibrated for year-round comfort.

Elevated Private Quarters

When the day winds down, the private home elevator whisks you effortlessly up to the sleeping quarters. Here, four expansive bedrooms offer absolute sanctuary. Picture waking up to the sound of distant waves in a primary suite flooded with natural light, stepping onto warm, heated stone floors in one of the four meticulously finished en-suite bathrooms before starting your day. It's a luxury 4-bedroom house with a private elevator in Lagos that actually anticipates how you want to move through your home.

The Neighborhood

You are anchored in one of the most exclusive, quiet residential pockets in the Faro District, entirely free of the usual seasonal traffic. The world-famous cliffs and golden limestone rock formations of Ponta da Piedade are just a few hundred meters from your front door—perfect for a quiet morning walk before the world wakes up. When you crave culture, fresh seafood, or a morning espresso, the cobbled streets of the Lagos historical centre are only a breezy 1.5km stroll away.
